From the Polding Learning Community Learning Pit:

In Mathematics this week, we are consolidating decimals through money activities and beginning our work on Mass. Students are commencing a new task in English which will tap into their special interests. They will be researching a topic that they are passionate about and then writing a persuasive text that tries to influence their peers point of view. Students will then have the opportunity to present this in a variety of ways. This week we will commence our unit of work on Advent and look forward to this journey to Christmas. Take care.
